

CFS seminars and workshops 2025

Contact: Evelina Johansson Wilén, evelina.johansson-wilen@oru.se. If you need to participate online, please contact Evelina Johansson Wilén for a zoom link.

9 January, 13.00-14.30

Venue: 2240

Grant applications workshop/brainstorming. During this seminar we discuss applications. If you want to present something at the seminar, notify evelina.johansson-wilen@oru.se no later than 5 January. This is a collaboration with Sociology.

23 January, 13.00-14.30

Venue: 2240

Martina Vikander, PhD-student in Social Work, presents her ongoing PhD-project "Breaking Free from Violence: The Vulnerability and Resistance of Children and Youth".

13 February, 13.00-14.30

Venue: 2240

PhD-student Rukaya Al Zayani presents a draft for an article.

27 February 13.00-14.30

Venue: 2240

PhD-student Jacob Preene presents his research plan.

6 March, 13.00-14.30

Venue: 2240

Suvi Salmenniemi, professor of Sociology, Turku University, Finland, visits the seminar and presents ongoing work.

27 March, 13-14.30

Venue: 2240

PhD-student Maria Darwish presents a draft for an article.

3 April, 13.00-14.30

Venue: 2240

Professor Susanna Heldt Cassel, professor of human geography, Örebro university, and Dr.M (Maartje) Roelofsen, Wageningen University and Research, the Netherlands.

24 April, 13:15-15:00

Venue OBS! New location: Östra Mark Ö201

Neferti Xina Tadiar, professor of Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies at Barnard College and Moa Martinsson guest professor at Linköping university, visits the seminar and presents ongoing work.

Anti-Colonial Planetary Struggle: History, Humans, and Us

In this talk, I reflect on the question of history in my recent book, Remaindered Life, and on my own retelling of the dominant story of our global present in the wake of postcolonial, indigenous and Black feminist critiques of history and in the context of climate change. I delineate subaltern forces and practices of social reproduction at work in Philippine contexts of urbanization, the global service economy, and wars of security within the global capitalist economy in order to attend to other agencies and engines and timelines of change than what a humanist history would allow. If History participates in the project of reproduction of colonial power and colonial inhabitation, calling into question our own disciplinary social science and humanities scholarly stories, the method and regard I delineate here might offer instead one way of participating in the project of anticolonial planetary struggle.

8 May, 13.00-14.30

Venue: 2240

Sam de Boise, senior lecturer and docent, School of Music and Theatre, Örebro university presents the paper "Musical masculinism and the contemporary far-right".

5 June, 13-14.30

Venue: 2240

Annika Andersson, professor of Informatics, Örebro University School of Business, presents her work on AI and inequality.

Gender studies text seminars spring 2025

Seminars and workshops fall 2025

CFS-seminars:

8 September, 15.00-16.30

Venue Lab105

Title: Genital coevolution and the overlooked female

During this seminar Dr. Patricia Brennan from Mount Holyoke College <https://www.pattybrennan.com/> will visit the seminar to present her work on genital coevolution and gender.

Dr. Brennan studies the functional morphology of genitalia in vertebrates to understand their complex evolution. She is interested in coevolution because the mechanical interaction of genitalia suggests that male and female must fit together to make copulation possible, however, her work has highlighted the gaps in our understanding of female genitalia. She has worked with birds, dolphins, bats, sharks, skates and more recently alpacas and snakes, discovering amazing adaptations in all these groups.

11 September, 13.00-14.30

Venue 2240

Annika Rudman, Karlstad University, professor in Gender Studies will visit the seminar and present her work.

18 September, 13.00-14.30

Venue: F2126

Meeting with our new Vice Chancellor, Åke Ingerman. He will visit CFS to learn more about our work, and we have also invited him to present on his own research in science didactics.

13 November, 13.00-14.30

Venue: F2240

Helene Aaseth (Professor, Centre for Gender research, Oslo University) and Rebecca Lund (Associate professor, Centre for Gender research, Oslo University) visit the seminar and present ongoing work.

18 november, 13.15-15.00

Venue: TBA

Titel: Docent lecture Jono Van Belle

Jono Van Belle, Docent in Media and communication studies gives her docent lecture. A collaboration between CFS and the higher seminar of Media and Communication studies.

20 November, 13.00-14.30

Venue: F103

Title: Intersecting inequalities and structural barriers to women's participation in global governance.

In this seminar, Juliana Correa Jaramillo, Head of the B.A. in International Business at Universidad EAFIT (Medellín, Colombia) and PhD candidate at the Open University of Catalonia, will present the methodological design of her dissertation's integrative literature review. She outlines a framework for analyzing structural barriers and developing indicators of intersectional participation in global governance.

Gender Studies text seminars:

25 September, 13.00-14.30

Jacob Preene, PhD-student in Gender studies, presents ongoing work.

27 November, 13.00-14.30

Berta Flaquer, PhD-student, presents "Rethinking Urbanization Through an Ecofeminist Lens: Towards Regenerative and Feminist Spatial Practices"

