

Skrivutveckling i stora studentgrupper

Sociologiämnet i samarbete med Akademiskt skrivcentrum

At any gathering of sociologists one hears complaints about student writing. Students do not write enough, they cannot write clear and logical essay examinations, they cannot structure a sentence, nor a paragraph, much less a term paper. We often blame poor student writing on failures in secondary education or in freshman composition courses, on deprived family and neighborhood backgrounds, or on a generally lessened literacy in the United States.
